

The Source for Navy News

Captain's Call

Master's Degrees Available Through Washington D.C. Intern Program

Applications for the FY-09 Navy Washington, D.C., Intern Program are being accepted through Dec. 12, as announced in NAVADMIN 291/08.

This program, which runs from August 2009 through June 2010, offers an opportunity for up to six officers to receive a fully-funded Masters of Arts degree in organizational management from The George Washington University (GWU) while also serving on senior Washington, D.C., area staffs.

The intern program is designed for officers who have demonstrated superior performance, upward career mobility, and command potential. Participants will attend full-time evening classes at GWU and complete two-five month internships to expand upon their course work.

Other internship opportunities include serving on senior Washington, D.C., area staffs such as Office of the Secretary of Defense, Joint Chiefs of Staff, Office of the Secretary of the Navy and other government agencies such as Department of State and Department of Homeland Security.

Eligibility is limited to active duty 0-4 and 0-5 unrestricted line officers who have demonstrated superior performance and command potential. Each prospective participant must be eligible for a 12-month (minimum) tour of shore duty and have completed JPME phase I. Officers who have previously finished an in-residence Department of Defense funded master's degree are not eligible.

For more information on the program and application process see NAVADMIN 291-08.