

Joint Military Medical Managers Course Looks for Participants

Coordinators for the military's Joint Operations Medical Managers Course (JOMMC) announced Jan. 7 that spaces are still available for O-4 through O-6 health care professionals interested in attending the Feb. 27-March 4 training.

The closeout date for applications was slated for Jan. 6. However, seats are still available. Commanders are encouraged to send senior medical providers to this course, which is designed to increase interoperability among U.S. medical forces.

JOMMC incorporates lectures and table-top exercises with role playing to allow participants a chance to practice their training. They also learn how to prepare and present a formal Joint Task Force surgeon's brief, essential information for an area commander.

JOMMC is offered twice a year and is open to tri-service active-duty, Reserve and National Guard medical officers, and foreign national military health care professionals. Qualifying participants are awarded approximately 40 continuing education credits upon successful completion of the course.

For more information on how to apply for JOMMC, call DMRTI Public Affairs at (210) 221-0781 or log onto their training Web site at www.dmrty.army.mil.
