

The Source for Navy News

Captain's Call

Naval Postgraduate School Seeks Doctoral Applicants

The Naval Postgraduate School (NPS) in Monterey, Calif., is accepting applications for three open positions in its doctoral program through Oct. 2.

Eligible officers can apply to receive a doctorate in political strategy and intelligence (POL-MIL), combat systems and science, or naval mechanical engineering. Only unrestricted line surface, submarine or special warfare officers may apply for the POL-MIL doctoral program. The two other openings are limited to restricted line engineering officers.

Applicants must have a master's degree related to the field of study and receive command endorsement. Letters of recommendation are very important.

A complete list of requirements for application packets can be found in NAVADMIN 230/06 at <http://www.npc.navy.mil/ReferenceLibrary/Messages/>.

For answers to questions about the application process, contact Maricel Mendoza at (831) 656-3093. For questions about how time at the NPS would affect sea-shore rotation or other career-related issues, applicants should contact their detailers.

