NEXCOM Lowers Prices to Make Calling Home More Affordable

The Navy Exchange Service Command (NEXCOM) has negotiated lower prices on its AT&T Direct Ocean Service (DOS) per-minute calling rates as well as its prepaid calling card program, effective Nov. 1.

NEXCOM lowered the price on ship-to-shore phone calls, and domestic and international rates for ashore phone cards. The price of AT&T DOS per-minute calling rates have been reduced for calls made from ship to shore from 50 cents per minute to 45 cents per minute. Customers can now save up to 39 percent on domestic state-to-state calls and up to 47 percent on international calls to the United States, including Japan, Bahrain, Guam, Iraq and Italy.

AT&T prepaid calling card prices have also been simplified. NEXs will now offer two different prepaid calling cards, a $10 and a $20 version. These cards will be available for purchase at any NEX or NEX vending machine. The prepaid cards have also been modified so that customers can check the balance or add more minutes to the card at any NEX cash register.
