

Navy Introduces New PT Uniforms

The Navy has introduced its new physical training uniform (PTU).

The PTU consists of a gold shirt with reflective Navy lettering and blue shorts with Navy lettering and reflective markings.

The new uniforms will be required for all group and unit physical training in the Navy, as well as the semi-annual physical fitness tests.

The new PTUs will begin hitting the Navy, arriving at Recruit Training Command, in April, and will phase into the rest of the fleet between May and September. Sailors will be able to pick up their uniforms at Navy Exchanges around the world, costing $50 for the required two sets of PTUs.

Simultaneous with the official fleet rollout of the uniform, flag officers, commanding officers and command master chiefs will have the opportunity to purchase their PTUs by calling the Navy exchange uniform call center.
